

Guidelines for formatting homework assignments

1. Each homework problem must be on its own page. Even if there is a homework problem that is short and only takes up half of a page, you may not do another homework problem on the second half of that page. You must start a new page.
2. Write on only one side of a page.
3. At the top of each page, clearly write your name, “ABE 460”, the homework chapter number, the homework problem number, and the page number for that particular homework problem.

Place a staple here. Staple your pages before coming to class.

Chapter number

Problem number

Page number. This example indicates “page one of two”; since this problem is very long and cannot fit on one page, a second page will be used.

Clearly show all work. Place a box around your final answer.

Do not write on the backside of a page. Only write on one side of the page.

Engineering paper or graph paper is not required, but is preferred.

4. Clearly show all work in order to receive full credit or maximum partial credit.
5. Clearly indicate your final answer by placing a box around your final answer.
